CAPTAIN LOVERING SCORED.

Colonel Hunter Says His Treatment of Hammond Was Unlawful. CHICAGO, November 25 .- In the Lover

ing court-martial case at Fort Sheridan Lieutenant-Colonel J. A. Hunter, of Fort Snelling, Department of Dakota, acting as judge-advocate, severely arraigned Captain Lovering for his treatment of interuniversity foot-ball match. Yester-day was no exception to the rule, and Private Charles Hammond. When the testimony was all in, and Attorney Blair had addressed the court in defence Captain Lovering's action, Judge-Advo-cate Hunter arose. After speaking of the importance of the case, he took up the specifications of the charge, saying that Lovering was first accused of the failure to use legitimate means to get a garrison orisoner before a summary court, and, second, that he cruelly abused and illtreated said prisoner.

general evidence reviewed the against Lovering, saying that the mony showed beyond doubt that Lover-ing, as officer of the day, kicked Ham-mond, prodded him with his sword, and cursed him. "Gentlemen, I submit that our military community anything is the nature of punishment should conform to law," he continued, "and that a general use of arbitrary power or punishment without trial is calculated to hasten our disbandment as an organization not restrained by law and in opposition to the spirit of our free institution

Between the officers who exercised power in the manner the accused did and the enlisted men who are liable to beome their victims there can be no oth relation except that of master and slave The general exercise in the power and means such as the evidence shows the accused to have employed in executing his order to have Private Ham mond brought before the summary cour would necessarily result in our officers owning the enlisted men.

In conclusion, Colonel Hunter said; "In In conclusion, Colonel Hunter said: "In this trial I think there is something more than a serious accusation involved. I think the reputation of army officers for good judgment, for command of self, for humanity and justification, is all on trial here. This is a time of peril to our order and to our tribunals. I think the things which the accused has done tyranneally ought to appear to you just as things which the accused has done tyran-nically ought to appear to you just as bitter and scandalous as they did to him who felt them. The finding delivered by this court will live long after taps have been sounded over the graves of the men composing this court."

The verdict of the court-martial has

FIRE ON BLANCO'S PALACE. Cuban Insurgents Make a Bold Raid

Into Habana. A special to the New York World from Habana, Cuba, says: A few insurgents raided Casa Blanca, within rifle shot of the palace of General Blanco, on Sunday morning. They stayed almost two hours, and looted a store within a stone's throw of the Cabanas fortress.

They camped in broad daylight within a quarter of a mile and in full sight of the big floating dock, and they evaded squadrons of cavalry and a double line of fort garrisons in going back to the

Meanwhile, another part of the same force raided Cojimar, near Guanabacoa. At midday both forces united and reached the hills in safety.

It was the most daring raid of the war. The point reached in Habana is a large village nestling under the walls of Cabanas on the edge of the harbor just across from the palace. Although there are no guards in the place itself, be-tween it and the country is a district four miles broad, which is filled with troops. The dozen insurgents were of Aran-guen's party. They entered Casa Blanca at 1 A. M., passing within 100 yards of Fort No. 4 of the Cabanas fortress, and took food, clothing, shoes, and medicine without alarming the sentrics.

Then they fired a volley across the narrow strip of water at General Blanco's palace and retreated amidst a tremen-dous fusillade, but none is known to have been killed. They camped at Ingenito, a small sugar estate in ruins just outside the fort, until 11 A. M. Two squadrons of the Pizarro cavalry were sent to reinforce the large patrols and garrisons, but the Cubans got safely away. Their shots were heard, of course, all over Habana, and caused onsternation. Now the raid is the talk of the town.

Some Spanish officers are likely to be degraded in consequence of the raids, General Blanco is said to be extremely

A battalion of Habana police arrived on the scene too late, having been de-layed in embarking on the Habana side of the narrow bay.

The party which attacked Cojimar had a lively fight. Many Spanish soldlers were killed. The Cuban loss is unknown. Last night another party, supposed to have been commanded by Aranguen, entered Santa Maria al Rosario and sacked the stores. The town is only about three miles from Guanabacoa, Habana's principal suburb. There was quite a fight there, but the losses are un-

ALASKA TIMBER CUTTING.

President Expected to Deal With It in His Message. WASHINGTON, D. C., November 25.

The President in his message will, it is expected, devote more attention to Alaska than has been given to the big Territory heretofore since its purchase. It is known that the Executive will recommend speedy legislation to secure the best pos sible government for Alaska, and that he will also take occasion to point out the difficulties which the people are under, and will urge that something should be done to protect the property of the gov-In this connection he will refer to the fact that the government is losing large sums because there is no way of pro-tecting the timber from indiscriminate use. Commissioner Hermann, of the General Land Office, has submitted in formation on this point to the President, and has also taken occasion to recomend some radical changes in the laws elating to the permit system for cutting timber in other sections. At present large companies and corporations are cutting timber under the permit system, supposedly for use in the mines, but the Commissioner has information that train oad after train load of lumber has been taken from the forest and placed in the lumber yards in various cities and towns and never used for mining purposes at A better system of permits for cutting and inspection of timber, not only for the mineral States of the West, but also for Alaska, has been presented to the President, and the government officials will endeavor to have legislation speedily enacted for the better protection
